

Vision for Marriage – Leaders Notes

This topic covers one of the main relationships for most men, their marriage partnership.

Just as we need a vision, or mental model, for manhood, we also need a vision for how marriages should work.

All men will have been exposed to other people's marriages, whether it be their parents, significant people in their life, friends or even just people they know from work or church. Be aware that men often have negative views of marriage

Most men hope to be married and have children, but if your group includes men who have given up on marriage or have the gift of celibacy then be considerate of their points of view. They can and should still appreciate God's plan for marriage, even if they feel it only applies to others.